This is an inside joke. This concrete section of Martinsburg Road is called a Politician's Road because these concrete roads were said to have been built leading to the farms of influential County residents. So we asked our politicians to walk the Politician's road.

Beatles pose!

The Rustic Roads Advisory Committee members extend their thanks to our elected officials for making the special signs possible by providing funding, and to all of the community members and organizations who supported this effort and joined us in celebrating.

And a final thanks goes to the skilled Montgomery County staff photographer who took these lovely photos.*
