@ggwash

Montgomery County is addressing road safety concerns with a pedestrian master plan and a new Twitter campaign called #WalkingHere:

Walking in Montgomery can be treacherous. This plan aims to change that. Montgomery County has seen a slew of traffic crashes and deaths in the past few years, and residents say something needs to change. This fall the county is takin...

#walkinghere: love too have to step over lumpy clumps of overgrown weeds that are growing in the unkempt cracks between sidewalk panels! (I was initially biking on this sidewalk, but the weed clumps got to be too much to roll over so I switched to walking)

Marcella Robertson ✓
@Marcella_Rob

Montgomery County wants to improve conditions for those who walk. Between 2015 and 2018, there were 44 pedestrian deaths in the county. Where do you want to see improvements? Share your experience using #WalkingHere @eliglazier @montgomeryplans @wusa9
